

Dressed and ready for a dance at the Starr School round hall, c.1920. From left: Eagle Child, wearing a modern style of weasel shirt, while carrying his rifle in a beaded case; James White Calf, wearing a blanket coat and his transferred one-horned weasel headdress, his leggings tucked into rubber boots; Bird Rattle, in weasel suit and straight-up headdress; his son-in-law, Oscar Boy, in a blanket coat, wearing a sloping headdress and a tall pair of rubber boots; and Short Face, wearing a dark feather headdress and fringed buckskin suit, along with a medicine necklace and some kind of special ribbon pinned to his chest.
Museum of the Plains Indian #105